The Chief Guest of the session, Prof. Elluri Shiva Reddy, stressed that everybody should be passionate towards mother tongue & inculcates such affection in younger generations also. He explained the hurdles in the way of forming a standard language for 31 districts. He stressed the need of finding a common language amid different dialects.

Primary and secondary school level papers, Intermediate level papers and Degree level papers were presented by the presenters.

As Telugu is our mother tongue, we need not discuss about the challenges and threats towards this language. Teachers particularly should show and inculcate interest among the students, while teaching the language. All the dialects in Telugu states should be taken into consideration, when the curriculum is designed or compiling the text books. Telugu teachers should not be treated inferior to others. Many historical inscriptions, poems and other valuable things are available only in Telugu language. So the teachers, parents and others should encourage the students to speak in our own mother tongue in order to protect its identity.
